"The Budget of the West," Altogether Above Par, the Favorite Resort of Chicago Schoolmarms—The "Cure" as a Factor of Summer Life—Rocky Bathing at Wisconsin—Fourteen at Five Cents—The Season at Commercialville—Notes from Various Neighboring Resorts.

Oconto, Lake, Wis., July 20.—[Special.]—"The Budget of the West," altogether above par, the favorite resort of that section of North America which embraces on the Atlantic Slope the whole broad district of the Atlantic. Newport is to itself a social system—a State. So Saratoga, Long Branch and other watering-places, on both extreme and "fashionable" (the latter used for distinction's sake) lines, have each their own social spheres. The intermediate and further-inland cities, dependent upon the Newport and Saratoga sorts who are interested in the summer movement of wealth and rest, make up the remainder portion and interdependent a community of ideas and wishes as complete as it is unique in the experience of cities.

But as for Lake Geneva, Fox Lake, Spring Lake, Oconto, Round Lake, Pewaukee, and all the world round, in the list of any and every summer Newport? What Saratoga's records may not set to be an old or an open, an elaborate public pleasure or gayeties to be so called fashionable, yet there is a real element to them, and there is a real attempt to reproduce the latest fashionable features thereof.

Fox Lake has the company. Every day it is beautifully crowded with. There are good provisions and convenient accommodations; plenty of good drives and boating; and the lake is itself large enough for plenty of room for all. Besides, there are the Chautauqua Assembly and the Methodist Camp-Meeting, which bring each year to the lake a number of visitors who would not otherwise go there. Many of these are professional people, who, by the way, make the most delightful of summer boarders. Those who attend the Chautauqua Assembly are for the most part teachers, and most delightful companions they are. They combine the freedom of their young minds, brought up in the freest country on earth, with the conservatism of their profession. Every day is a holiday to them, and they enjoy it as such. They are not afraid to be natural, and they are natural. They are not afraid to be young, and they are young. They are not afraid to be happy, and they are happy. It is a shame that all Fox Lake is not full of Normals, or that all Normals do not go to Fox Lake. Their presence and spirit would make the place perfect. Round Lake, which is the seat of the Methodist Camp-Meeting, is also a delightful place, and has many attractions. The camp-meeting is a most delightful institution, and the Round Lake Hotel is a most delightful hotel. Its table is excellent, and its rates reasonable. Lake Geneva is the most fashionable of the lakes. Its most prominent party has even been into Newport. Our last has entertained Senator Lee to salmon, as the days of the week had done other days to other delicacies; and numerous parties of the most fashionable people are entertained.

Lakeside, a new and charming party of pleasure-seekers, is presided over by Mrs. Dr. and Mrs. Mary Allen Starrett, of Chicago. There are two hotels and numerous cottages. There are also many tents. Lakeside is a most delightful locality. Every day is a holiday, or a series of a holiday. It is a place that all the Faculty of Rush Medical College should visit, and especially when they are suffering from their winter's work. There are not many places where one can get more genuine rest and recreation for less money. Lakeside is a place of a thousand delights. Its air alone would be worth the price of admission. Every day is a delight

Is now the population of Chicago, the males of which number 401,326—a stupendous multitude, but we have them sure, and are prepared for as many more before the next decade. THE HUB aims to supply them all; have certain assurance from our success since our inception here that we are daily catering to a goodly portion of them, but our ambition is to sell them ALL—that's what we started business here for, and as sure as a few years pass by we shall do it. Remember this assertion, for it will assuredly be carried out. We commence now. On

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday

We offer you the choice of all the light-colored Spring Suits, Sack, Frock, or Prince Albert styles, in our Main Suit Dept. 2,400 Fine Suits, sold all the season at $15, $18, $20, $25, and $30, and give choice of them all for three days at $12.00.

Ponder a moment on the immensity of this offer. All our light-colored Spring Suits, that every one will change you from $10 to $15 for, we say for these three days you shall have what you select, and all we ask for them is $12.00. Don't wait till Tuesday, but come in tomorrow and get best pick. You shall have just these qualities. Don't buy them if they don't strictly correspond with your expectations. THEY MUST GO! THEY SHALL GO!

TACOMA, Washington Territory,

FUTURE METROPOLIS OF THE PACIFIC COAST,

—AS A—

PLACE OF RESIDENCE AND PROFITABLE INVESTMENT.

SITUATION.

On Commencement Bay, at the head-waters of Puget Sound, the great inland sea, over one hundred miles long, and varying in width from three to twelve miles, open to the commerce of the world the entire year. The harbor cannot be excelled, both for security and facilities for accommodating the largest vessels afloat.

POPULATION AND GROWTH.

The population of Tacoma in 1880 was 720; one year ago 2,000, while to-day it is fully 15,000, and new comers are arriving in great numbers by every train and steamer. At the present rate of increase the number of inhabitants here in January, 1888, will probably exceed 20,000. The assessed value of the property eight years ago was about $500,000; to-day it is about $6,000,000. Sewerage: 1880, 1; 1886, 6; church buildings in 1880, 2; in 1886, 20; brick blocks in 1880, 1; 1886 they occupy a frontage of nearly half a mile. The greatest streets in 1880, to-day [illegible] miles of business streets, flanked on either side by brick structures, adorn the city.

TACOMA'S GROWTH COMPARED WITH OTHER CITIES.

Carefully revised statistics show that the percentage of the increase in population of the following named cities have been as follows since 1880:

Portland	100 per cent
Seattle	2000 per cent
Duluth	2000 per cent
St. Paul	975 per cent
Tacoma	4,000 per cent

RAILROAD FACILITIES.

This is the Western terminus of the Northern Pacific Railroad, in direct communication with and practical terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railroad, being connected with Tacoma by the steamers of the C. P. Navigation Company, terminus of Pacific Coast Steamship Company, whose steamers ply between here and San Francisco, and here and Alaska. Also of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company water division. The only point on Puget Sound in direct communication with Japan, China, and India, and thus receiving the bundles of their vast trade.

MANUFACTURING.

A large number of industrial enterprises are now starting their works, which the present summer will employ over 2,000 men, thus adding nearly 10,000 to our present population.

We have here three of the largest saw-mills in the world. A $2,000,000 smelter for reducing and refining the ores received from the silver refinery to Tacoma is being built. Flour mills, furniture factories, sash and door establishments, foundries, machine shops, woodenware works, shingle mills, all employing a large number of men, are to be found here, together with other industries too numerous to mention.

SHIPPING.

The shipping facilities of Tacoma are unsurpassed. The depth of water is sufficient to float the largest vessels in the world. The only port on Puget Sound from which cargoes of wheat are shipped. The Sound is free of obstructions and vessels can sail right up to the wharf here, thus saving about $4,000 in lighterage and pilotage charges, as against the Columbia River route to Portland. Over five hundred thousand tons of coal, worth, including freight charges, nearly $5,000,000, shipped from here the past year. Lumber to the value of $1,000,000 was shipped from here.

COMMERCE.

Wheat is worth from 5 to 6 cents per bushel more here than at any other Northwest port. The capacity of the wheat district tributary to Tacoma is estimated at 100,000,000 bushels.

Hops are raised extensively in the great Puyallup Valley, nearly 5,000,000 pounds being produced last year. This is one of the most profitable of crops, the average yield being 1,000 pounds to the acre, average price paid 12 cents, 12 cents cost of production, 8 cents per pound net profit per acre, $120. The land is worth in raw state, $100 to $200 per acre; improved with growing crops, $300 to $400 per acre.

TIMBER.

Tacoma is in the heart of the great Sound timber region, in the world, the timber belt being about 60 miles wide by 600 miles long, and after deducting the enormous amount subsisting the commerce annual requirements of the world, will contain about 175,000,000,000 feet, which is enough to supply the world's demand.

MINERALS.

Coal, next to timber, is the most important export. The mines are situated thirty miles distant from Tacoma, and contain practically an inexhaustible supply, suitable for the finest coke, gas, and fuel. Iron ore of an excellent quality, and in bulges of great value and extent, are found near here. Building stone of a superior quality is obtained from the mountains.

HOTELS AND OTHER BUILDINGS

The "Tacoma" is the finest hotel north of San Francisco, and a magnificent structure, being built by the Northern Pacific Railroad in 1888 at a cost of $300,000.

The Northern Pacific Railroad is also just completing its handsome office building at a cost of about $100,000.

W. H. Fife has erected an elegant hotel and business block combined, costing, exclusive of furniture, &c., $60,000.

Several lots have purchased and plans are being drawn for an opera-house costing $100,000.

The Rochester is an elegant family hotel of brick and stone, now being built by A. C. Smith at a cost of about $75,000.

WATER-WORKS

There are on a large scale and capable of supplying a population of 100,000, and furnish a limit both pure and cold, it coming from a crystal lake some nine miles distant.

The gas works are very extensive, furnishing a supply of excellent gas, and have a capacity of 50,000 feet per day.

The Edison Municipal and American Arc lights are both in successful operation here.

Two street-car lines are in active operation, another under construction, three more projected, and which will be in running order by January, 1888.

EDUCATIONAL.

We have five large public schools here, costing $60,000. Washington College cost $50,000, and is further endowed with $60,000. A State Institute, costing $50,000, is also endowed with $60,000. The Methodist Episcopal University is located here, and will build a $75,000 structure the present year.

REAL ESTATE.

Transfers—1886, $700,000; 1887, $3,000,000; 1888 (only six months), nearly $5,000,000. During the the rapid development of Tacoma and the surrounding country although steadily increasing in value, still the future prospects are considered brighter than ever before.

CLIMATE.

Climate of the Puget Sound country is vastly unlike anything experienced in any other part of the United States. Summers are cool, and the winters are singularly mild. Average temperature in summer about 60, and seldom going as high as 85, while in winter the mercury rarely goes below 30, the average being about 45.

SCENERY.

The scenery here is very beautiful and will bear a brief description.

At the south-western border of Tacoma lies the Great National Park in the Pacific Northwest, it extends to a southerly direction for a distance of over twenty miles, and is about five miles in width, surrounded by snowy mount, covered with a luxuriant growth of fine green and evergreens. During over the surface of this park is an extensive an area of a rolling nature. The park is dotted with evergreens and deciduous trees, while here and there a small crystal lake or sparkling stream invite bathing to the scene. And Mount Tacoma, with its snow-capped peak towering 14,444 feet above the level, and the long glacier tongue of ice to the snow-line sloping at an incline well defined against the blue sky, presents one of the most inspiring sights the human eye ever beheld, and, breaking above all, lends further enchantment to this already magnificent panorama.

THE ALAMEDA.

This park is increased in area length by the most beautiful and popular drive from Tacoma to the "Alameda," which skirts along through the centre and driveway large indeed, almost twelve miles in length, which are the favorite resorts of Tacoma's citizens as the multitude of visitors who have made great.

THE WHOLESALE TRADE.

Of this city is growing to enormous proportions, owing to the fact that nearly all of the varied and extensive resources of the Territory is tributary to us. The towns of the coast and the shipping and railroad facilities make it the natural site for wholesale business.

The undersigned, comprising the largest capitalists in Boston and a majority land of real estate in Tacoma, a general land business in Washington Territory, and has constantly many new investors coming here daily. The needs of these investments have led the undersigned and subscribers to organize, and owing to the need for the management of the Pacific Northwest business investments made in and near Tacoma are sure to yield more than ordinary profits.

Edwards and Deibler's Defeat the Vote for Taxes and Abolishes Slot Machines. Democrats Unite to Give to the G. O. Platform and Vote Against Graduated Inheritance Tax.

The proof that the Republicans and the Democrats have combined to secure control of the State Government and enable themselves to remain at the head of the Board was yesterday furnished. The Tribune by Charles G. Dawes, a Labor leader who was the recognized head of his party in the last Illinois Legislature. Mr. Dawes was one of the men who organized the Labor movement two years ago, but he was the nominee of the Union Labor party for Lieutenant-Governor last Thursday, when he wrote a letter of declination intended to warn his constituents to fight the combination of the Republicans and Democrats.

But all the Labor men did not have such warning, though they probably will be warned before the next election. Edwards and Deibler, who were two of the Labor members of the Board, were elected with the assistance of the Democrats, and they were active in the nomination for the position of the Democratic candidate for Governor, the candidate of the Democratic party, and the candidate of the Union Labor movement in Cook County, but he, too, had entered into the scheme with the Democrats, and it is to his credit that he refused to vote for Deibler. Edwards, who cast the deciding vote for the nominees, as follows:

"I was originally elected as a Republican to the Board, and I have the honor to be the Democratic member. Prior to the primary election I was asked by the Union Labor party if I would support Deibler for the position of president of the Board. I told them I would not, as I had been elected as a Republican, and I would support the Republican ticket. I was then asked if I would support Deibler if he was nominated by the Democratic party. I told them I would, as I was elected by the Democratic party, and I would support the nominees of that party. I was then asked if I would support Deibler if he was nominated by the Democratic party and the Union Labor party. I told them I would, as I was elected by the Democratic party, and I would support the nominees of that party. I was then asked if I would support Deibler if he was nominated by the Democratic party, the Union Labor party and the Republican party. I told them I would not, as I was elected by the Democratic party, and I would support the nominees of that party. I was then asked if I would support Deibler if he was nominated by the Democratic party, the Union Labor party, the Republican party and the Socialist party. I told them I would not, as I was elected by the Democratic party, and I would support the nominees of that party. I was then asked if I would support Deibler if he was nominated by the Democratic party, the Union Labor party, the Republican party, the Socialist party and the Prohibition party. I told them I would not, as I was elected by the Democratic party, and I would support the nominees of that party. I was then asked if I would support Deibler if he was nominated by the Democratic party, the Union Labor party, the Republican party, the Socialist party, the Prohibition party and the Independence party. I told them I would not, as I was elected by the Democratic party, and I would support the nominees of that party. LONDON, July 23.—While the Kaiser and the Czar have been rehearsing peace during the week England has been rehearsing war. The fleet of battleships ordered to concentrate at Spithead, on the South Irish coast, and Long Hartley, the magnificent inlet on the north coast leading to Londonderry, and also to and around the Scotch Irish circling coast of St. George Channel. The object was to obtain a fair approximation to the conditions of actual warfare. The warfare game assumed that Ireland for such was a nation and not been conquered within history day on the south coast and within the outer part of Londonderry on the north coast, the English fleet practicing ingress and egress at each place and seeking an opportunity for effective operations against the Irishmen navy in the Irish War on water on the Confederates at Derry and later on Yarmouth, Chatham, and other places.

At the admiralty the effective condition was stated a and the defending men, or enemy, was called B. These opposing forces were protected into divisions—A, 1, 2, 3, B, 1, 2. The first A division of English naval units, with Admiral Hawke as a leader, was under Admiral Beers, and was to operate against the two B divisions of the Irish defenses in Derry Bay under Admiral Brophy, and the second A, under Admiral Bradley, with a team as duty longer, was given Admiral Albert Fleury of Irish Londonderry.

The hostile fleets came to the Irish coast each arranged to see each other's movements by a system of the Scouts. The French gunboat Hawke Admiral Beers, with Admiral Brophy's fleet, was ordered immediately to enter the open sea, but B, 2 should during the night remain in Derry Bay. The two fleets, starting the last on Sunday night, were to meet on Tuesday, the combined fleets then

STORY OF LORD HOUGHTON'S NEW AND LATEST BOOK OF VERSE.

A Strange Story of Religious Fanaticism and Worldly Wisdom—Beginning of a New Organization—Colonel Ingersoll Gets a Fresh Factor in Making Trouble—Looking for the Second Advent in 1885—Curious Religious Communities.

New York, July 29.—[Special Correspondence.]—What comes from Portland at the mouth of "Queen Esther," the production and color of the various noteworthy scenes in the "Rise and Later Career of Israel," whose embodiment at Chatham, England, has been for years one of the stories of that country. The story of the community is one of the most remarkable in all the annals of religious fanaticism. It may be in some respects compared with that of Mormonism, for the "Rise and Later Career of Israel" does not eschew any of the revolting features, nor was at the extreme temperance of the "Latter Day Saints" of Joseph Smith and Brigham Young.

James Jershom White was the founder of the "Rise and Later Career of Israel," that he was naturally endowed with any peculiar qualifications for the work of a prophet is to be doubted. Twenty-five years ago he was a private soldier in England's fighting army. It was while he was stationed with his regiment at Bermondsey about the year 1857 that he conceived the idea of gaining himself at the head of a new religious movement. His first step was to get up a tract book. This he did by compiling a volume from the modern religious writings of John Wise and James Jershom White, who had died some years before, and founded a sect known as "Christian Israelites," which, though not numerous, was strongly united and wealthy. Lewis Abrahams, of Ashton-under-Lyne, in England, The followers of James Jershom were mostly artisans at Chatham. White gave to his book the title of "The Flying Roll," and pretended that it was the "flying roll" spoken of by the prophet Zechariah. His first attempts at promulgating were directed toward the Universalists, and he succeeded in gathering to himself a small band of believers. These men, almost without exception, the most poor in the regiment—sincere and intelligent in a degree. But the keen perception which enabled them to detect any difference in their associates in matters of life, White's "Flying Roll" became another of the "Sacred Books" of the sect, and is believed to be the present time of the army.

The chief tenet which the members of the sect have to profess is belief in the divine mission of James Jershom White. He is to them a prophet, and was called by God to lead the Israelites out of the land of bondage. He is to them a second Moses, and they look upon his writings as inspired. Next to White in importance is Abrahams, who is to them a second Aaron. Abrahams is the author of the "

Value Fighting the Over-Quarter Rate Caused—Sunday Was the Date to 1,000-1, and the Heir of Packard Owes Back to 1,000—Bertie Powell and Beaston Are Said Winners—Weekend Rates to Sterling.

The world of the Turf this week presents the appearance of calm. It is a waiting period, in which everybody appears to be sure of winning money from the handlers, who will not have to look to the payment of their debts at present, and the bookmakers are much pleased at the way things have gone.

The first race this fortnight, for three-year-olds, of which the public has nothing previously, had five starters. Nothing was in the betting, and Sunday was 2 to 1 against Sunday, 3 to 1 against Bertie Powell, 4 to 1 against Bay Rum, 5 to 1 against Beaston, and 10 to 1 against Packard. The race was won by Bertie Powell, Sunday second, Beaston third, Bay Rum fourth, and Packard fifth. The first heat was run in 1:49¼, and the second in 1:48¾. Powell was the favorite, and was ridden by Garrison, being sold a week before the race.

The second event was that of Value of Consideration, a sale stakes, running for all ages, at one mile and one furlong. The betting was 2 to 1 against Value of Consideration, 3 to 1 against Long Tom, 4 to 1 against Lizzie Dwyer, 5 to 1 against Lizzie Dwyer, and 10 to 1 against Lizzie Dwyer. The race was won by Value of Consideration, Lizzie Dwyer second, Long Tom third, Lizzie Dwyer fourth, and Lizzie Dwyer fifth. The first heat was run in 1:49¼, and the second in 1:48¾. Value of Consideration was the favorite, and was ridden by Garrison, being sold a week before the race.

The second event was that of Value of Consideration, a sale stakes, running for all ages, at one mile and one furlong. The betting was 2 to 1 against Value of Consideration, 3 to 1 against Long Tom, 4 to 1 against Lizzie Dwyer, 5 to 1 against Lizzie Dwyer, and 10 to 1 against Lizzie Dwyer. LAND GRANTS AND TERRITORIES DISCUSSED IN THE SENATE.

Republicans Do Have to Share Odium Incurred for Failure to Transact Useful Work—Provision for a Public Library Building—Favorable Report on Mr. Pettus's Seats Contested Bill — Proceedings Against Worker Veteran Against Capital Suits.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 26.—After most desultory work and wrangling over what appropriations bill should receive attention the Senate today heard Mr. VANCE of Washington Territory in behalf of over 200,000 disfranchised citizens of the Republic appeal for the admission of Washington Territory into the Union. So much of the Senate party to the past, with, or hereafter about to capitulate to deprive the people there to representation of the privilege of citizenship under a constitutional form of government to which sole or most promise to discredit the Democratic party as he would to encourage the Republican party.

Mr. GORMAN of Colorado said if the gentleman from Washington could influence eight or ten Democrats he could get a bill through tomorrow for the admission of that Territory. But a unanimous appeal to patriotism might be had for the last three years for admission of that prosperous and great Territory.

Mr. PETTUS of Illinois said that the Democratic party in its platform of principles which it professed for the past had entered at issue with having reversed the entire policy of the Republican party touching the granting of land to railroads. The policy of granting lands to States to aid in the construction of railroads was initiated in 1850 by the passage of a bill making a grant in aid of the Illinois Central Railroad, 2,595,000 acres of public land being granted to that road. The bill was passed by a Democratic Congress, was signed by a Democratic President, and all the establishment associations connected with the policy were entered by the government from then to point-life. In June, 1856, a grant of nearly 5,000,000 acres was made to Alabama in aid of the Mobile
